annals of the amusements of America

They have succeeded in effecting an engagement with the celebrated from La Scala Milan, Royal Theater, Turin, and her Majosty's Theater, London, together with the whole of his ballet and pantomine troupe, embracing a choreographic strength of nearly two hundred persons.

SIGNOR RONZANI

It has often been a subject of remark and also of regret, that although many brilliant celebrities have at various times appeared among us, their best efforts have but too often been sensibly crippled from the want of suitable auxiliary aid. The rapid advance which has also recently taken place in the public appreciation of the Fine Arts generally imperatively demands that any presentation of Art, whether Dramatic, Operatic or Choreographic, to be permanently successful, should be perfect in detail, harmonious in its combinations, and should not be offered to the public in framentary installments. The management, fully sensible of this important fact, have entered into a contract with the celebrated Signor Romani, together with his powerful Troupe, for the production of a series of Pantomines, both serious and comic. These Pantomines are not to be confounded with those light "divertissements" and ballets of action which have at various times been offered to the public. They are essentially high standard dramas, performed entirely in Fantomine, each and every character being sustained by an artist of the highest eminence, sided by new and powerful scenery, gorgeont contumes, novel mechanical effects, and supported by an auxiliary force of nearly two hundred persons.

The name of Renzani has been justly eminent for the last twenty years throughout the principal capitals of Europe, not only as a maitre de ballet, but as composer of maie incidental to pattomine, ace and every character being sustains of Europe, not only as a maitre de ballet, but as composers of train anong the most eminent of modern composers.

Notwithstanding the enormous outlay involved in this undertaking, the management hav A SIAGNIFICENTLY ILLUSTRATED EDITION,

A TALE OF LOUISIANIA.

A leading New York critic says:

"I consider Miss Dupuy to be, in many respects, at the head of American Female Royelists. She excels all others in the construction and development of a plot. She is an acute observer, describes well, and her dialouge is lively and animated. I am inclined to put the "Planter's Daughter' at the head of her novels. It is something in these days to have a Southern novel that is neither Anti-Sisvery nor Pro-Siavery."

THE PERFECTION of MECHANISM.—
AMERICAN IMPROVEMENT IN WATCHES.
These WATCHES are manufactured on the same system that has made American frearms the best in the world. It eshetishes made American frearms the best in the world. It eshetishes dealers are the statement of the same system that has made American frearms the best in the world. It eshetishes devised and made expressly for this establishment, case of which works true to the thousandth part of a hair, sarning out its own particular part, so as to be an aract fit in any one of a thousand Watches. High skill with good back may equal such work, now and then, but must fall generally, and always such work, now and then, but must fall generally, and always be dearwr. The ease of repair is obvious, because the manufacturers have always on hand parts to replace any that may be damaged. Their simplicity and stability of structure render these watches the least flable to get out of order, and they are confidently recommended as superior in every respect, and especially in the correctness of their Tune, to imported especially in the correctness of their Tune, to imported watches of the same price. As soon as their merits are known people will no more think of importing Watches to get roof ones, than they now do of importing clocks or pistols with that view.
